The Inaugural Mary Ann Mason Lecture

“How Far Have We Come?”

Arlie Russell Hochschild

Professor Emeritus of Sociology

Tuesday, March 14, 2023

4-6p.m.

4p.m. Lecture, 5p.m. Reception

This is the first in a series of new lectures honoring Mary Ann Mason. It was established by her family to honor Mary Ann Mason's many contributions to the Berkeley community—as a scholar, teacher, colleague, and the first woman Dean of the Graduate Division. The lectures are dedicated to bringing a variety of perspectives on the subjects—women, family and children—to which she was devoted.
